

THE 2003 NOBEL PRIZE IN ECONOMICS

I could not find the exact letter written out for the 2003 ex-ante prediction, but I had communicated to many people that I believed Clive Granger, Robert Engle, and Jerry Hausman would win for econometrics this year.