

1 Instructions

1. For this project, I'm looking for you to update and organize your website.
2. Also, you should be reading your journal article carefully. This assignment will give you another opportunity to go back through the article to assess what the researchers did with the data.

2 Things to put on your website (next)

- A description of the specific experimental design of the study. You should comment on the design, sources of variability, reference sample, randomization process (?), replication, fixed vs. random effects, etc.
- At least one suggestion for how they might design the study better if they were to do it again.
